Another storage vault security application tool designed for both the iPhone and the iPod Touch gadgets is iVault Application.

The application has quite similar function with the mSecure application; thought iVault app is more on vault storage protection. Yet, inside such vault would be the same, if not mostly similar to that of the information protected by the mSecure app. This includes confidential data as such social security and credit card information stored in the portable devices' encrypted vault.

How is iVault being used?

The advent of mobile phones has offered a lot of benefits to almost every people across the globe. Instant communication thru text messages or calls has broken the barrier of contact. Moreover, information is also made portable, so you can have them anytime and anywhere you wanted. It is simply because they are stored inside your portable devices' vault storage. Such function is also deemed as information management.

Apple has designed them for such purpose of handling different types of information, particularly music and video files. More than that are other information storing capabilities, like contact details, map directions, appointment schedules and reminders and even some of the most private information a person owns.
